Dr. Illich and Amy Jorgens, Vice President of Administrative Services & CFO reported on the following update on the quarterly financial report:

- Southeast Community College's Financial Strategy
 - 2025-30 Strategic plan Goal 6
 - Institutional Strategy
- SCC Quarterly financial report
 - Composite Financial Index
 - REU
 - Cash reserve
 - Net position
- HLC Composite financial index consists of four key financial ratios
 - Primary reserve ratio
 - Measures financial strength and flexibility
 - Calculations: expendable net assets/total expenses
 - CFI weight 35%
 - Return on Net Assets Ratio
 - Measures whether the college is better off now than in the previous year
 - Calculation: Change in net assets / Total net assets
 - CFI weight 20%
 - Viability Ratio
 - Measures expendable resources available to cover debt obligations
 - Calculation: Expendable net assets / Long-term debt

- CFI weight 35%

 - Calculation: Operating Income (Loss) plus Net Non-operating Revenues (Expenses) / Operating Revenues plus Non-operating Revenues

- Composite financial index/weighting of four ratios
 - Since 2017, SCC has transitioned from a history of no debt to maintaining viability while assuming debt to pursue and accomplish its strategic initiatives
 - SCC has enhanced its primary reserve ratio to maintain flexibility and financial viability

ADMINISTRATIVE PRESENTATION/BOARD REVIEW

13a. New Program Proposals

Joel Michaelis, Vice President of Instruction, reported an overview of new programs.

- Artificial Intelligence for Professionals Certificate
 - Program Overview
 - Southeast Community College (SCC) proposes to establish an Artificial Intelligence for Professionals Certificate. This credential is intended for students seeking to attain skills in the proficient and ethical use of artificial intelligence (AI). This program prepares individuals to work in professional settings that utilize tools in AI. This will be useful in an office setting and for small business owners in a variety of career fields.
 - Rationale & Justification
 - Targeted student population
 - Curriculum plan
 - The proposed curriculum plan for Artificial Intelligence for Professionals Certificate credential is comprised of 16 credit hours. Courses will be offered in a combination of face-to-face, online, and/or synchronous web modalities. Existing full-time and/or adjunct faculty will teach all courses.

- Potential revenue and expenses
 - No additional funds are needed to offer this credential. We anticipate that current faculty will teach all classes in the program with the existing courses. No additional support staff, equipment, or classrooms will be needed as all existing classrooms and equipment will be utilized.
- Electronic System technology – AVD/Low Voltage technician Diploma
 - Program Overview
 - The AVD/Low Voltage Technician Diploma program prepares students for careers as service and field technicians in the Audio, Video, and Data (AVD)/Low Voltage industry. Graduates will be equipped to work with private companies and government organizations, supporting installation, maintenance, and repair needs. This program can help current employees advance within their organizations or serve as an entry point for individuals new to the field.
 - Rationale & Justification
 - Targeted student population
 - Curriculum plan
 - Students in the AVD/Low Voltage Technician Diploma program will begin with ACFS 1015 (Success @ SCC) and Basic DC Principles. They will learn about active devices such as transistors and develop troubleshooting skills essential to the field. Coursework in Audio, Visual, and Low Voltage Systems will expand their troubleshooting experience and introduce concepts in voice communication. Additional topics include analog and digital modulation, antenna radiation patterns, and fiber optics. Students will also complete two General Education Learning Outcome (GELO) courses as part of the diploma requirements.
- Culinary/Hospitality: Hospitality Management and Culinary Communications AAS proposal
 - Program Overview
 - The Culinary/Hospitality program currently offers an Associate of Applied Science degree in Culinary Arts with three possible focuses: Culinary Arts, Hospitality Management, and Culinary Communications. The purpose of this proposal is to separate these focuses into their own separate AAS degree pathways. The program already offers separate Diplomas in Culinary Arts, Hospitality Management and Culinary Communications.
 - Rationale & Justification

- Targeted student population
- Curriculum plan
 - Since this proposal requests separation of already existing focuses within the Culinary/Hospitality program, all courses are existing courses. No new courses are needed. These courses are available on the Lincoln campus and are offered face-to-face, hybrid or online. All courses will be taught by the current full-time faculty.
- Potential Revenue and Expenses
 - No additional expenses are forecast because we are separating current options within an existing AAS using existing courses. We will utilize existing space, faculty, staff, and equipment with no additional costs associated for the separation of the options. With the purpose of providing students with more customized choices to meet their educational goals, we do not anticipate additional revenue.
- Additional Resources
 - No additional resources are necessary.
- English Certificate
 - Program Overview
 - The English Certificate credential is an entry-level certificate that will develop knowledge and skills for students interested in earning a credential in English and gaining access to employment in the writing, editing, and design field. Courses provided in this certificate are currently offered through the English Department.
 - Rationale & Justification
 - Targeted student population
 - Curriculum plan
 - The proposed curriculum plan for this credential will ladder to existing Academic Transfer credentials and serve as a stackable credential within the Academic Transfer and other Associate of Arts Programs. Courses will be offered face-to-face as well as online. With the exception of a new Capstone, all course requirements currently fit within the existing Academic Transfer and Associate of Arts degrees.
 - Program Learning Outcomes
 - Potential revenue and expenses
 - No additional funds are needed to offer this credential. We anticipate the current faculty to teach all classes in the program. No additional support staff, equipment, or classrooms will be needed as all existing classrooms and equipment will be utilized.
 - References

The Board reviewed each program individually and discussed the specific needs, requirements, and justification for each one.
